Gratitude for Amber R. Dettmers, Jacob Halpern Weitzman, and Nicholas Lambros Smith, MFA Stage Management Class of 2020.

- Thank you for being challenging and holding me to the highest standards as your teacher and mentor.
- Thank you for being the student pillars of the stage management area through lots of transition, including the one we are in right now.
- Thank you for being the cohort that was there for me while I proposed my book and took it all the way to completion before you graduated!
- Thank you for inspiring your classmates and collaborators across a landscape of challenging productions and scenarios.
- Thank you for being a cohesive group with strong collective ideas about curriculum and productions.

Dear Amber,

- Thank you for allowing me to get a lot of steps your first quarter with our walking meetings.
- Thank you for bringing your teaching perspective into the program and your innovative ideas about production.
- Thank you for your commitment to thriving in a diversity of work situations and directly tackling every challenge.

Dear Jacob,

- Thank you for your joyful curiosity.
- Thank you for asking me to share a notable failure on one of our walks and thank you for your interest in my writing process.
- Thank you for your innovative production requests and continual expression of gratitude.

Dear Nico,

- Thank you for your voracious self-inquiry while you've been at UCSD.
- Thank you for sharing so much of your story in your interview and during your graduate work.
- Thank you for your commitment to creativity and stellar production work.
